CONGRESSMEN AWAIT SPECIAL SESSION CALL

Possibility Seen Roosevelt May Set Date Late Today

HOPE FOR SHORT SESSION LOOMS

Proposed Repeal of Arms Embargo to Be Chief Business

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—President Roosevelt may announce today the date when he will call congress into a special session at which he wants the controversial arms embargo provision stripped from the neutrality law.

Before he left his Hyde Park (N. Y.) home last night, it was learned he had determined, despite fears of a senate filibuster, to issue a summons to the legislators.

Date indefinite

The date remained indefinite, however. Since Mr. Roosevelt would have to allow time for members of congress to pack up and come to the capital, some authorities thought the session would not begin before early October.

Administration officials were hoping for a short session, restricted to patching up the neutrality act along lines suggested by Secretary Hull. Primarily, they want repeal of the provision forbidding exports of arms ammunition and instruments of war to combatant countries.

The administration was represented as being none too pleased at the idea that congress might discuss neutrality for a protracted period.

Some officials were understood to be concerned over European reaction to the debate, particularly because of suggestions that any change in the rules of the game while a war was in progress might be interpreted as unneutral.

Would Aid Allies

Before congress decided to postpone action on neutrality legislation at the last session, legislators were in agreement the scrapping of the arms embargo would permit Great Britain and France to obtain munitions in this country and virtually stop German purchases, by reason of the fact that British and French sea power generally has been acknowledged to be superior to that of Germany.

Administration authorities have urged with the idea of trying to persuade the senate to invoke cloture, a parliamentary maneuver which would limit debate, but they have been convinced it would be all but impossible to toss aside the traditional senate prerogative of unrestricted debate on every issue.

The racing program will include 2:24 trot, 1:23 pace and 2:14 trot on Wednesday, and 2:17 pace, 2:17 trot and 2:13 pace on Thursday afternoon, with a $300 purse in each event. George E. Pyle of Cleveland will be the starting judge.

Prizes of $25, $20, $15, $10 and $5.00 will be awarded in the horse pulling contests, with the light-weight teams of 3,000 pounds or under, competing at 9 o'clock Wednesday, while the heavy-weight teams of over 3,000 pounds will compete at the same hour on Thursday morning.

A grand champion prize will be awarded in the dog show for the best dog of any breed of either sex, as well as prizes for best male and female over one year, also for the best puppies, male and female, over six months.

Other departments in which prizes will be awarded include: Poultry, sheep, swine, cattle and show horses; school and 4-H club exhibits; grain, seeds, vegetables, fruits, flowers, art, textile and culinary skill in dairy and pastry exhibits.

POSTOFFICE AT ROGERS ROBBED

$40 Is Loot; Deputies Probe 6 Other Burglaries Today

LISBON, Sept. 11.—Deputy Sheriff O. W. Stacey and Howard Clark today investigated breaking and entering at a store here and several establishments, including the postoffice, at Rogers village.

Between $20 and $100 worth of clothing was taken by burglars who gained entrance to the W. J. Binsley & Son clothing store here, while $40 in cash and bonds was removed from the safe at the Rogers postoffice, the deputies reported.

U. S. Postal authorities are expected to probe the postoffice robbery.

Part of the money taken at the postoffice belonged to Mrs. Lesta Murphy, postmistress. Entrance was gained by breaking a side window in the building.

The same thieves are believed to have looted a neighboring service station operated by Lee Paulk, the J. P. Rudabaugh feed store and garages at the residences of Bert Martin, Raymond Fitzsimmons and Charles Martin. Gasoline was drained from cars at the three garages.

Tobacco, canned goods and collections were stolen at Paulk's place. The exact amount of loot at the feed store was not known. John Babble, village marshal, reported.

At the Binsley clothing store in Lisbon the burglars broke the glass and crawled through a rear transom after first attempting to jimmy a rear door.

A safe in the store was not molested and a few pennies in the cash register were left untouched. The deputies are taking fingerprints at all robbery scenes.

Bonds Delivered

LISBON, Sept. 11.—Columbiana county's issue of 110 relief bonds of $1,000 each were delivered to George T. Lennon in Columbus today.

Commissioners announced that cities will receive their relief allocations for the remainder of the year sometime this week. Salem is slated to receive $1,962.70.

DEFINITE WORD OF DR. HOLZBACH, WIFE, LACKING

Friends Nurse Hope They Are On Cameronia, Enroute to U. S.

NO ONE ABLE TO MAKE CONTACTS

Card Postmarked Aug. 31 Last Direct Word From Couple

Lack of official confirmation of reports that Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Holzbach of Salem are safely on their way to the United States from Scotland left the question of their whereabouts still uncertain today.

The original report of the New York bureau of the Associated Press that Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach had been rescued from the S. S. Athenia after it had been torpedoed and sunk has been clouded lately by contradictory theories. They are:

(1) That the Salem physician and his wife were not aboard the ill-fated British liner; (2) that they are still in Scotland; (3) that they are now on board a ship bound for the United States.

However, there is no official information to give strong support to any one of them.

Not On Athenia List

Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach's names did not appear on the Athenia office passenger list nor among the list of survivors, although the Associated Press reported that they were among the survivors landed at Galway, Ireland, by the Norwegian steamer Kauto Nelson. However, the official passenger list went down with the Athenia.

The latest development was the receipt of a card Sunday by Miss Francis Markovich, city health nurse, who is supervising the care of the Holzbach children.

The card, mailed by Dr. Holzbach Aug. 31 in Edinburgh, says that the Salem couple had secured passage on the liner Cameronia, leaving Glasgow Sept. 5 and arriving in New York Sept. 12.

Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach were originally scheduled to sail on the liner Caledonia, but in a letter mailed to Miss Markovich Aug. 29 they reported the Caledonia had been commandeered by the British government and their reservation cancelled.

Owned By Same Firm
The Caledonia and the Cameronia are both owned by the Anchor Lines of Scotland and it is reasonable to believe that Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach's reservation might have been switched to the Cameronia after the Caledonia had been commandeered by the United Kingdom.

However, no information is available as to whether the Cameronia actually sailed or whether Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach were aboard if it did.

The card, received yesterday by Miss Markovich, was mailed prior to the scheduled sailing of the Cameronia, and no direct word has been heard from the Salem couple since.

It is regarded as unlikely that if Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach were aboard the Cameronia, in the event the ship sailed as scheduled, they would be permitted to send word from the ship because of the danger of exposing its whereabouts to submarines. And, for the same reason, the ship probably would not answer incoming wires.

New German Drive Against Poland's Supplies Seen As Big Threat By Writer

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

Vastly outnumbered Polish troops today were continuing to defend the heart of Warsaw against the invading Germans, three days after Berlin read with jubilation an announcement by the Nazi high command that one of its units had forced an entry into the outskirts of the capital.

While the thrusts and counter-thrusts, and the bayonet work are spectacular they are only preliminary to the "real thing." All this is merely "spare work."

More Serious Threat

A far more serious threat to the Poles than the loss of their capital was developing fast in southeast Poland, down in the corner near the Roumanian and Russian borders.

Here the Germans were jamming forward toward the strategic city of Lwow (that's our old World War friend "Lemberg"), and were claiming progress. It was reported they were making for a heavy assault on Lwow.

Once a Polish Railroad Station

The location smothered under a blanket of German censorship, this station, "somewhere in Poland" was reduced to a pile of rubble by heavy shelling and aerial bombing. Railway terminals have been favorite targets for bombing planes of both sides.

Pilot Training At Mt. Union College Is Assured Today

Eight Ohio colleges today were among 166 colleges approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority for participation in the civilian pilot training program.

They were: University of Cincinnati; Ohio State university; University of Akron; University of Toledo; Kent State university; Mount Union college; Kenyon college and Ohio university.

Efforts have been under way for the last two months to obtain this program for Mount Union. The federal government will make an allotment to the college for the course and inspectors are expected to visit the school in the near future to arrange facilities for carrying on the program.

Following passage of the civilian pilot training legislation, immediate application was made by the college for the program by Dr. Charles B. Ketcham, president of Mount Union, and the college board of trustees. They were assisted in their efforts by U. S. Rep. James S. Combs.

Advantages cited in the request by Mount Union included an adequate airport and an aircraft factory in the vicinity, as well as ideal geographic location. The announcement of the plan to include the college in the program followed inspection by federal authorities.

Germans "Forced to Retreat from Some Warsaw Suburbs"

NAZIS PREPARE FOR LWOV DRIVE

Hope to Cut Polish Communication Line With Roumania

(By Associated Press)
BUDAPEST, Sept. 11.—A broadcast from the Polish radio station at Lwow today declared that after four days of bloody fighting the Polish army had forced German invaders "to retreat from some Warsaw suburbs."

The report was broadcast at 2:10 p. m. (8:10 a. m. E. S. T.).

The Lwow station, about 220 miles southeast of Warsaw, said German planes were bombing the heart of Warsaw, but did not estimate casualties.

A Warsaw broadcast two hours earlier had indicated the Polish army still was holding the defense lines of their capital.

Drive On Lwow Seen

BUDAPEST, Sept. 11.—German planes, tanks and big guns were reported massing for a concentrated drive on Lwow (Lemberg) today in an effort to cut Poland's line of communications with Roumania, its sole avenue for supplies, by capturing the capital of the Polish Ukraine.

The rapid turn of events left the location of the Polish government in doubt. One report here said headquarters had been moved to Krzenieniec, 250 miles southeast of Warsaw and almost on the border of Soviet Russia. Other reports said the government had gone from Lublin to Lwow, and was moving eastward from there.

As Warsaw dug in for its fourth day of siege by a German force that launched more than 40 air raids and countless tank attacks yesterday, the radio station at Lwow, 210 miles to the southeast, instructed the city's defenders to dig trenches and erect street barricades.

There were indications the German drive already had started. Throughout the broadcast from Lwow, sirens could be heard sounding air raid alarms.

It appeared that Lwow, one of the chief industrial centers in southeastern Poland, was to be subjected to the same sort of battering that has taken place at the gates of Warsaw since the German forces reached there last Friday.

The Polish general staff's communique No. 10, broadcast from Warsaw last night, reported German air bombing continued relentlessly all around the capital, especially along the line of the Bug river north of the city. Fighting continued without change, the communique said, in the vicinity of Ostrow Masowski, 50 miles north-east of Warsaw.

The communique also reported severe fighting along the San river, which flows from the Carpathian foothills in southern Poland, chiefly at Sanok, south of Przemyśl, 50 miles west of Lwow.

TRAIN KILLS 2 AT MASSILLON

Canton Man, Woman Are Victims; Two Injured
In Local Traffic

Only two persons were reported injured in Salem district traffic accidents over the weekend.

The traffic death toll in the state for the weekend, however, climbed to 12 this morning when a train struck an auto at Massillon, killing two persons.

Canton Couple Victims
Miss Katherine Scheetz, 25, and Robert P. Ringer, 23, both of Canton, were killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at a grade crossing.

Bodies of the victims were found under the train's pilot engine after it carried the car a quarter mile. William Stoll, 54, inmate of the Mahoning county infirmary, suffered a badly torn arm when struck by the door handle of a passing car on Route 62, just north of Canfield, at 8:45 p. m. Saturday.

State Patrolman Robert Jones said the driver of the car, Wayne Boggs, 21, of Mineral Ridge, failed to see Stoll walking along the highway until too late. It was raining at the time. Boggs swerved his car and overturned. He was uninjured.

Auto Hits Truck

In a Route 30 accident near Canons Mills at 5 p. m. Saturday, Mrs. Rita Donnelly, 50, of E. Lincoln way, Lisbon, suffered a sprained ankle. She was riding in a machine, driven by her son Dale, 22, which, the state patrol reported, hit the rear of a truck driven by Harry Woliam of R. D. 1, Rogers.

Wilbur Spalding, 18, of Salem, escaped unhurt Saturday night when his car struck a guard rail on the Lisbon road, four miles south of this city, when he attempted to avoid hitting a parked car, reported by the patrol to have been owned by Oakley Hartzell of R. D. 3, Salem.

Rodger Way, 19, of Columbiana, and R. Mitchell of Youngstown, were unhurt when the former's car and the latter's truck collided on Route 46, two miles south of Canfield, at 3:15 a. m. Sunday.

New German Drive Against Poland's Supplies Seen As Big Threat By Writer

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs

Vastly outnumbered Polish troops today were continuing to defend the heart of Warsaw against the invading Germans, three days after Berlin read with jubilation an announcement by the Nazi high command that one of its units had forced an entry into the outskirts of the capital.

While the thrusts and counter-thrusts, and the bayonet work are spectacular they are only preliminary to the "real thing." All this is merely "spare work."

More Serious Threat
A far more serious threat to the Poles than the loss of their capital was developing fast in southeast Poland, down in the corner near the Roumanian and Russian borders.

Here the Germans were jamming forward toward the strategic city of Lwow (that's our old World war friend "Lemberg"), and were claiming progress. It was reported they were massing for a heavy assault on Lwow.

Germany has been banking on Russia to provide her with food and the situation of war, and the Nazi authorities declared that with Soviet supplies available "the allies cannot starve the Fatherland out."

Lack of official confirmation of reports that Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Holzbach of Salem are safely on their way to the United States from Scotland left the question of their whereabouts still uncertain today.

The original report of the New York bureau of the Associated Press that Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach had been rescued from the S. S. Athenia after it had been torpedoed and sunk has been clouded lately by contradictory theories.

(1) That the Salem physician and his wife were not aboard the ill-fated British liner; (2) that they are still in Scotland; (3) that they are now on board a ship bound for the United States.

However, there is no official information to give strong support to any one of them.

Not On Athenia List

Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach's names did not appear on the Athenia office passenger list nor among the list of survivors, although the Associated Press reported that they were among the survivors landed at Galway, Ireland, by the Norwegian steamer Knute Nelson. However, the official passenger list went down with the Athenia.

The latest development was receipt of a card Sunday by Miss Francis Markovich, city health nurse, who is supervising the care of the Holzbach children.

The card, mailed by Dr. Holzbach Aug. 31 in Edinburgh, says that the Salem couple had secured passage on the liner Cameronia, leaving Glasgow Sept. 5 and arriving in New York Sept. 12.

Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach were originally scheduled to sail on the liner Caledonia, but in a letter mailed to Miss Markovich Aug. 29 they reported the Caledonia had been commandeered by the British government and their reservation cancelled.

Owned By Same Firm

The Caledonia and the Cameronia are both owned by the Anchor Lines of Scotland and it is reasonable to believe that Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach's reservation might have been switched to the Cameronia after the Caledonia had been commandeered by the United Kingdom.

However, no information is available as to whether the Cameronia actually sailed or whether Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach were aboard if it did.

The card, received yesterday by Miss Markovich, was mailed prior to the scheduled sailing of the Cameronia, and no direct word has been heard from the Salem couple since.

It is regarded as unlikely that Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach were aboard the Cameronia in the event the ship sailed as scheduled, they would be permitted to send word from the ship because of the danger of exposing its whereabouts to submarines. And, for the same reason, the ship probably would not answer incoming wires.

National Convention To Be Held Here In 1941;
Orashan Honored

N. T. Orashan of Salem was elected an alternate member of the executive committee of the Union and League of Rumanian Societies of America Sunday at the organization's 29th biennial national convention in Cleveland.

Salem was chosen as the site for the 1941 national convention, which will be held during the Labor day weekend, bringing at least 2,000 persons to the city, it is announced.

Nicholas Balintovic of Cleveland was named president of the group for his fifth successive term.

Orashan and Val Moga were delegates to the convention from the Rumanian Society Local of Salem.

Other national officers re-elected include: First vice president, Thomas Costina of Indiana Harbor, Ind.; secretary, John Muresan of Cleveland; auditor, John Bucur of Youngstown.

Elected to serve new terms were: Second vice president, Jacob Sitea of Detroit, and another auditor, Harry Olcan of Detroit.

Others on the executive committee, besides Orashan, are:

Eugene Puntean of Chicago, George Vita of Detroit, George Bruda of Youngstown, Nicolae Codrea of Akron, Valeriu Penta of Homestead, Pa., Joseph Francu of Pontiac, Mich., and Olimpiu Clontia of Gary Ind.

Other alternate committee members will be Octavian Berta of Canton, Sofron Fecete of Youngstown and Achim Macavel of Massillon.

Budget Hearings Opened at Lisbon

LISBON, Sept. 11.—A commission composed of three county officials is now conducting hearings on budgets for townships, school districts, cities and villages in the order named.

The hearings are expected to continue until after the November election.

Treasurer Olen Dawson, Auditor Ross Tisher and Prosecutor Karl Stouffer are members of the commission.

The point of this is that Lwow is the gateway to Roumania, upon which friendly state Poland's hopes were banking for her supplies of all sorts.

Cutting off of these supplies would be a major disaster for the Poles.

An even more important development concerns the unexplained mobilization of Russian reservists, and the announcement in Berlin that the plans of the German military leaders contemplated a resumption of railway communications between the reich and the Soviet Union.

Such a resumption, of course, would be premised on the smashing of the Polish forces by the Nazis so as to free the railways running across the country from Germany to Russia.

Finally a policeman armed with a vacuum cleaner trapped the rat in a closet and finished him off.

Pilot Training At Mt. Union College Is Assured Today

Eight Ohio colleges today were among the colleges approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority for participation in the civilian pilot training program.

They were: University of Cincinnati; Ohio State university; University of Akron, University of Toledo; Kent State university; Mount Union college; Kenyon college and Ohio university.

Efforts have been under way for the last two months to obtain the program for Mount Union. The federal government will make an allotment to the college for the course and inspectors are expected to visit the school in the near future to arrange facilities for carrying on the program.

Following passage of the civilian pilot training legislation, immediate application was made by the college for the program by Dr. Charles B. Ketchum, president of Mount Union, and the college board of trustees. They were assisted in their efforts by U. S. Rep. James Secombe.

Advantages cited in the request by Mount Union included an adequate airport and an aircraft factory in the vicinity, as well as ideal geographic location. The announcement of the plan to include the college in the program followed inspection by federal authorities.

PARADOX OF THE NEWS

The greatest news event of the last 20 years has been crowding newspaper columns and radio time. Yet there is a scarcity of news in the midst of an abundance of information.

News is something unusual—the man-bites-dog theory. Criminal behavior is news because it is out of the ordinary. If such behavior were ordinary, then observation of the golden rule would be news.

War already is ordinary. Someone remarked after the British and French declarations that the climax had been passed, and the impression is clinched by the fact censorship now sees to it that even information is made to fit into the situation.

When it's recalled how news of peace was received at the end of the World War and how declaration of the present war was received in grim silence, it seems that peace may be the only real news story left in a world that's war-weary before the generals have had time to pass out the first batch of medals for heroism.

HOW TO GET FEATHERS

Taxation being the art of plucking the most feathers from the goose with the least squawking, the goggle-eyed public looks with awe at cigaret taxes. Besides the considerably more than half a billion dollars squeezed out of tobacco, mostly cigarets, by the federal governments, no less than 25 states now are taking a crack at smokers.

The Federation of Tax Administrators, which reports this fact, also says eight cities have cigaret taxes. No figures are available for the total revenue derived from the smoking habit, but next to income taxation it is the nation's largest single source of spending money. The marvelous thing about it is that the tax-paying goose has become so accustomed to giving approximately half the cost of each cigaret to government that he no longer thinks about it.

Tax administrators must be awake nights thinking about the rosy possibilities of some other discovery that would make their job as simple as the late Sir Walter Raleigh's discovery that the weed was usable by civilized men.

WHAT THE TRAFFIC WILL BEAR

Perhaps the most honest comment on price jumping made during the last few days came at the end of a vehement outburst of indignation against the price jumpers. "Of course, I suppose if I were in their shoes I might do the same thing myself," the outburst concluded lamely—and then he bristled again. "But I'm not," he snapped.

The chief of the Ohio bureau of markets, W. Dale Hilbish, has pointed out calmly that the thing behind the price jumping—the thing that makes it possible—is the "frantic buying up of large food supplies by Ohio housewives." To indulge in an oversimplification of the problem, it's as though everybody suddenly decided they wanted to have six dozen eggs in the refrigerator, instead of one dozen, then complained because poultry farmers decided to charge what the traffic would bear.

As Hilbish explains, government has relatively no control over such a situation. In Ohio, the bureau of markets has no power to act unless scarcity is created. The federal government's control over commodity exchanges is limited to jurisdiction over certain manipulative practices in trading.

DOMINION DIFFERENCES

Whatever it is that Canada decides to do about the war in Europe, the significant thing at the moment is that the decision cannot be made easily.

There exists in the Dominion some of the same doubts that have taken firm root in the United States. Canada is conscious of its North Americanism as well as of its loyalty to the British empire.

Many of its citizens believe firmly in isolation as a proper policy. Some of them go further and believe in literal neutrality. Like isolationists in the United States, they see nothing to be gained by participating in the old world's ancient quarrels.

It is pointed out in dispatches from Ottawa and other points in Canada that the Province of Quebec is showing less enthusiasm for the war than the Province of Ontario. French Canadians, it is surmised, have a greater immunity to empire spirit than those of British descent. Some of the latter, too, are said to feel that Canada should take the distance between itself and the mother country more to heart.

The feeling is not peculiar to the present crisis. It was exhibited in the years after 1914 and in the period following the end of the World War. Canada's loyalty to Britain cannot be questioned, but the terms of loyalty are by no means clear at the outbreak of another war.

THE WAR OF COMMUNIKES

At the end of the first week of the European war an American had the following general ideas about it:

That the Germans were having things pretty much their own way in Poland.

That the Poles were letting the Germans have things pretty much their own way for strategical purposes.

That the French and English would draw off enough German troops from Poland to change the tide of battle there.

That by the time the French and English could draw German troops from Poland to help the Poles they'd be past helping.

That it was going to be a war to the finish.

That the war would be brought to a true as soon as Germany had gained its objectives in Poland.

That Germany could not win a long war.

That if Germany were beaten in a long war its opponents would be beaten, also—by exhaustion.

That the German army was working like a piece of well oiled, carefully adjusted machinery.

That the German army was poorly trained and would fall to pieces under pressure.

That Benito Mussolini was getting ready to make a deal with the Allies.

That Benito Mussolini was waiting till Germany conquered Poland before opening hostilities against France—also that France would open hostilities against Benito Mussolini—also that if aforesaid Mussolini, together with Adolf Hitler and perhaps Joseph Stalin were out of the way the war would be over in time for the opening of football season.

Perhaps the historians will be able to make some sense out of all this.

The Pennsylvania railroad company is spending about $75,000 on the erection of a new watering device for filling the tanks of their engines. The new pumping station and trough is between the Franklin road and Grafton, just east of Salem. There is a trough 1,800 feet long and 12 feet wide, holding over 5,000 cubic feet of water. The engine scoops up the water as it goes along instead of stopping from five to 10 minutes to get water from the old style tanks, thus cutting more time from the already fast schedules.

In this day of polar exploration it is of interest to Salem people to know that James and Eugene Sullot are second cousins of Lieut. Shackleton, the famous explorer who has made such progress toward the location of the South Pole.

Albert Hayes and Frank Beacham and E. H. Campbell and family who have been camping at the Country club, broke camp Thursday and returned to the city.

The publication of Peary's story of his account of his discovery of the North Pole, which appeared in the News yesterday, compared very favorably with the big city newspapers. The News was also the only paper in this section which gave an account of the death of E. H. Harriman, the great railway king, Thursday afternoon.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, September 12

A DAY in which much steady progress may be made, following the decisive breaking up of static conditions, impediments and tenacious obstacles, is forecast. Rather drastic action will ensue on the removal of such limitations, depressions and stagnations, placing the fortunes and interests on an enduring basis. There may be increased property values; also substantial support from elders or old institutions. But be careful in the matter of signatures, and refrain from impulsive or rash moves.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of definite action, following a long siege of stagnation, depression and frustration. There may be determined moves toward progress and stability. These may have the assistance of elders or of old-established institutions. Shun impulsive moves, excitement or recklessness, and sign papers cautiously.

A child born on this day may be practical and systematic, having much sturdiness of character to back up versatility and shrewdness. It should succeed by its own merit and determination.

Doctor Reveals Why Ears Rebel At Airplane Flights

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN MY yearning to be modern and keep abreast of the times, I have felt it my duty to overcome my natural repugnance to leaving the earth, to which I have long been attached by affection and gravitation, and soar into the atmosphere. I have undertaken several airplane journeys in the last few years, but I am about forced to give them up because of the discomfort to my ears.

To many of my fellow passengers to whom I complained this seemed strange; they said they felt no discomfort and the pilots awarded the recital of my symptoms only a pitying smile. I thought I was peculiar and brooded. To my relief, I find that many of my fellow human beings, young and old, have had exactly my experience and that even the pilots suffer so much from it that it is their common occupational disease, called "aviator's ear." In the United States, in Germany, barotrauma, and by aviation surgeons, aeritis media.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Uncomfortable Feeling
The feeling is, I assure you, most uncomfortable. As the ship rises you feel as if a pugnacious little dwarf were pressing on your ear drums, and then something inside your ear lets go with a rip and you feel better for a time. Then the pressure recommences. But when you are coming down, the worst part occurs. Then you get deaf, with an increasing feeling of fullness. The feeling does not wear off for hours, sometimes days.

The explanation is natural. Remember that the ear drum, in order to record sound, must be able to move back and forth. Nature has, therefore, placed it in front of an air chamber—the middle ear. Air goes in and out of this middle ear through a hollow tube—the Eustachian tube—which leads to the throat. But this tube, instead of standing wide open, as we generally have imagined it, is collapsible through most of its length, and acts as a flutter valve, opening only intermittently in response to pressure. One other thing opens it: certain muscles attached to it draw it open when swallowing or yawning occurs.

Aviation medical experts, such as Armstrong and Heim, have watched the ear drums under decreasing pressure. The drums bulge and then suddenly snap back in place—the crack.

This corresponds exactly to the symptoms experienced when ascending in an airplane. As the altitude increases the air pressure diminishes and the ear drums bulge. This creates a condition in the middle ear which eventually causes the Eustachian tube to open, equalizing pressure, and the ear drums snap back into place—corresponding to the crack that has been described.

Experiments with varying pressures have shown that the first bulge begins at about 200 feet altitude. It increases to 500 feet altitude and then the click occurs. The bulge immediately begins and restoration clicks occur about every 500 feet of ascension.

When the atmospheric pressure is increased instead of decreased, a totally different effect is produced. Here the Eustachian tube, acting like a flutter valve, remains closed under all conditions of pressure. It can be opened by voluntary efforts.

This corresponds to the conditions that obtain when the plane is coming down. And this is where the acute discomfort begins. Yawning, swallowing and chewing gum tend to open the tube and help things out, but, in my experience, not enough. In the meantime, the ear drum takes an awful beating.

News is something unusual—the man-bites-dog theory. Criminal behavior is news because it is out of the ordinary. If such behavior were ordinary, then observance of the golden rule would be news.

War already is ordinary. Someone remarked after the British and French declarations that the climax had been passed, and the impression is clinched by the fact censorship now sees to it that even information is made to fit into the situation.

When it's recalled now news of peace was received at the end of the World war and how declaration of the present war was received in grim silence, it seems that peace may be the only real news story left in a world that's war-weary before the generals have had time to pass out the first batch of medals for heroism.

HOW TO GET FEATHERS

Taxation being the art of plucking the most feathers from the goose with the least squawking, the goggle-eyed public looks with awe at cigaret taxes. Besides the considerably more than half a billion dollars squeezed out of tobacco, mostly cigarets, by the federal governments, no less than 25 states now are taking a crack at smokers.

The Federation of Tax Administrators, which reports this fact, also says eight cities have cigaret taxes. No figures are available for the total revenue derived from the smoking habit, but next to income taxation it is the nation's largest single source of spending money. The marvelous thing about it is that the tax-paying goose has become so accustomed to giving approximately half the cost of each cigaret to government, that he no longer thinks about it.

Tax administrators must be awake nights thinking about the rosy possibilities of some other discovery that would make their job as simple as the late Sir Walter Raleigh's discovery that the weed was usable by civilized men.

WHAT THE TRAFFIC WILL BEAR

Perhaps the most honest comment on price jumping made during the last few days came at the end of a vehement outburst of indignation against the price jumpers. "Of course, I suppose if I were in their shoes I might do the same thing myself," the outburster concluded lamely—and then he bristled again. "But I'm not," he snapped.

The chief of the Ohio bureau of markets, W. Dale Hibish, has pointed out calmly that the thing behind the price jumping—the thing that makes it possible—is the "frantic buying up of large food supplies by Ohio housewives." To indulge in an oversimplification of the problem, it's as though everybody suddenly decided they wanted to have six dozen eggs in the refrigerator, instead of one dozen, then complained because poultry farmers decided to charge what the traffic would bear.

As Hibish explains, government has relatively no control over such a situation. In Ohio, the bureau of markets has no power to act unless scarcity is created. The federal government's control over commodity exchanges is limited to jurisdiction over certain manipulative practices in trading.

DOMINION DIFFERENCES

Whatever it is that Canada decides to do about the war in Europe, the significant thing at the moment is that the decision cannot be made easily.

There exists in the Dominion some of the same doubts that have taken firm root in the United States. Canada is conscious of its North Americanism as well as of its loyalty to the British empire. Many of its citizens believe firmly in isolation as a proper policy. Some of them go further and believe in literal neutrality. Like isolationists in the United States, they see nothing to be gained by participating in the old world's ancient quarrels.

It is pointed out in dispatches from Ottawa and other points in Canada that the Province of Quebec is showing less enthusiasm for the war than the Province of Ontario. French Canadians, it is surmised, have a greater immunity to empire spirit than those of British descent. Some of the latter, too, are said to feel that Canada should take the distance between itself and the mother country more to heart.

The feeling is not peculiar to the present crisis. It was exhibited in the years after 1914 and in the period following the end of the World war. Canada's loyalty to Britain cannot be questioned, but the terms of loyalty are by no means clear at the outbreak of another war.

THE WAR OF COMMUNIKES

At the end of the first week of the European war an American had the following general ideas about it:—

That the Germans were having things pretty much their own way in Poland.

That the Poles were letting the Germans have things pretty much their own way for strategical purposes.

That the French and English would draw off enough German troops from Poland to change the tide of battle there.

That by the time the French and English could draw German troops from Poland to help the Poles they'd be past helping.

That it was going to be a war to the finish.

That the war would be brought to a truce as soon as Germany had gained its objectives in Poland.

That Germany could not win a long war.

That if Germany were beaten in a long war its opponents would be beaten, also—by exhaustion.

That the German army was working like a piece of well oiled, carefully adjusted machinery.

That the German army was poorly trained and would fall to pieces under pressure.

That, Benito Mussolini was getting ready to make a deal with the Allies.

That Benito Mussolini was waiting till Germany conquered Poland before opening hostilities against France—also that France would open hostilities against Benito Mussolini—also that if aforesaid Mussolini, together with Adolf Hitler and perhaps Joseph Stalin were out of the way the war would be over in time for the opening of football season.

Perhaps the historians will be able to make some sense out of all this.

The Pennsylvania railroad company is spending about $75,000 on the erection of a new watering device for filling the tanks of their engines. The new pumping station and trough is between the Franklin road and Grafton, just east of Salem. There is a rough 1,800 feet long and 12 feet wide, holding over 5,000 cubic feet of water. The engine scoops up the water as it goes along instead of stopping from five to 10 minutes to get water from the old style tanks, thus cutting more time from the already fast schedules.

In this day of polar exploration it is of interest to Salem people to know that James and Eugene Sulist are second cousins of Lieut. Shackleton, the famous explorer who has made such progress toward the location of the South Pole.

Albert Hayes and Frank Beacham and E. H. Campbell and family who have been camping at the Country club, broke camp Thursday and returned to the city.

The publication of Peary's story of his account of his discovery of the North Pole, which appeared in the News yesterday, compared very favorably with the big city newspapers. The News was also the only paper in this section which gave an account of the death of E. H. Harriman, the great railway king, Thursday afternoon.

Miss Sara Walker of Charleston, W. Va., and Miss Bessie Walker of the Beaver Valley are spending a two weeks vacation at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Walker, Franklin Ave.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, September 12

A DAY in which much steady progress may be made, following the decisive breaking up of static conditions, impediments and tenacious obstacles, is forecast. Rather drastic action will ensue on the removal of such limitations, depressions and stagnations, placing the fortunes and interests on an enduring basis. There may be increased property values; also substantial support from elders or old institutions. But be careful in the matter of signatures, and refrain from impulsive or rash moves.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of definite action, following a long siege of stagnation, depression and frustration. There may be determined moves toward progress and stability. These may have the assistance of elders or of old-established institutions. Shun impulsive moves, excitement or recklessness, and sign papers cautiously.

A child born on this day may be practical and systematic, having much sturdiness of character to back up versatility and shrewdness. It should succeed by its own merit and determination.

Doctor Reveals Why Ears Rebel At Airplane Flights

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN MY yearning to be modern and keep abreast of the times, I have felt it my duty to overcome my natural repugnance to leaving the earth, to which I have long been attached by affection and gravitation, and soar into the atmosphere. I have undertaken several airplane journeys in the last few years, but I am about forced to give them up because of the discomfort to my ears.

To many of my fellow passengers to whom I complained this seemed strange; they said they felt no discomfort and the pilots awarded the recital of my symptoms only a pitying smile. I thought I was peculiar and brooded. To my relief, I find that many of my fellow human beings, young and old, have had exactly my experience and that even the pilots suffer so much from it that it is their common occupational disease, called "aviator's ear," in the United States, in Germany, barotrauma, and by aviation surgeons, aeritis otitis media.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Uncomfortable Feeling

The feeling is, I assure you, most uncomfortable. As the snip rises you feel as if a pugacious little dwarf were pressing on your ear drums, and then something inside your ear lets go with a rip and you feel better for a time. Then the pressure recommences. But when you are coming down, the worst part occurs. Then you get deaf, with an increasing feeling of fullness. The feeling does not wear off for hours, sometimes days.

The explanation is natural. Remember that the ear drum, in order to record sound, must be able to move back and forth. Nature has, therefore, placed it in front of an air chamber—the middle ear. Air goes in and out of this middle ear through a hollow tube—the Eustachian tube—which leads to the throat. But this tube, instead of standing wide open, as we generally have imagined it, is collapsible through most of its length, and acts as a flutter valve, opening only intermittently in response to pressure. One other thing opens it; certain muscles attached to it draw it open when swallowing or yawning occurs.

Aviation medical experts, such as Armstrong and Helm, have watched the ear drums under decreasing pressure. The drums bulge and then suddenly snap back in place—the crack.

This corresponds exactly to the symptoms experienced when ascending in an airplane. As the altitude increases the air pressure diminishes and the ear drums bulge. This creates a condition in the middle ear which eventually causes the Eustachian tube to open, equalizing pressure, and the ear drums snap back into place—corresponding to the crack that has been described.

Experiments with varying pressures have shown that the first bulge begins at about 200 feet altitude. It increases to 500 feet altitude and then the click occurs. The bulge immediately begins and restoration clicks occur about every 500 feet of ascension.

When the atmospheric pressure is increased instead of decreased, a totally different effect is produced. Here the Eustachian tube, acting like a flutter valve, remains closed under all conditions of pressure. It can be opened by voluntary efforts. This corresponds to the conditions that obtain when the plane is coming down. And this is where the acute discomfort begins. Yawning, swallowing and chewing gum tend to open the tube and help things out, but, in my experience, not enough. In the meantime, the ear drum takes an awful beating.

Answer—No—absolutely not. The germ of syphilis does not live one second away from contact with animal (and in nature, only human) tissue.

Answer—I do not believe in mental telepathy.

CHAPTER XXVII

peering things from the apartment would anger Niklas. She dared not risk it. At the same time, she dare not refuse Cassie. She said:

"Tonight I'm being paid. I'll ask a week's advance, so as to help you out, Cassie. Will you come here in the morning for the hundred dollars?"

"It might be too late. I've a better plan. Let me slip into the club and see your last show. I guess it'd be business if Niklas saw us confabbing, being as how—she winked—I ain't classy enough for her marquis! ell me where you'll put the money, and I'll get it. That's simple."

"Simple? This web of subterfuge! I wouldn't press you, but I'm afraid Herman'll turn nasty. He's—on. He sure is cagy."

"The money," said Toni. "will be under the cushion of my chair. My table is on the right hand side of the club, near the orchestra. I'll have my fan on it when I go on the floor to sing, so you won't make any mistake."

"But Diaz, the head waiter? And what about getting by the door—"

"I'll arrange all that. You're a girl I'm interested in. You're studying to be a singer. You're to be admitted. You're waiting at my table to have a word with me. But you won't wait!"

"O K. Under the cushion. A hundred bucks?"

"Agreed."

"I'll go now."

They were in the foyer when the doorman rang. Toni opened the door. On the threshold stood Harriet Brewster and Brock Milbank.

"And who," asked Brock gaily, "was your somewhat rabbit-looking friend?"

"Just a girl looking for a job," Toni said coldly.

How dare Brock come here! Had his effrontery no limits? And with Harriet Brewster! Was he chasing the rich girl?

Harriet said carelessly, "I've seen her before. Doesn't she dance in a cafe on Broadway?"

"I'm sure I really don't know," Toni retorted.

"Somehow one had to fib. Toni detested it."

"What an enchanting place!"

"The salon is rather lovely. Come in won't you, please?"

Brock was thinking. Toni was going ahead like wildfire. Maybe he'd been a fool to jilt her. He'd pay up anyway.

Miss Brewster in the salon was registering delighted surprise. She knew Toni. She had discriminating taste.

"This is superb, marquis!"

"Seems quite familiar, Antoinette," said Brock, smiling a crooked smile. "The harp—the chaise longue—the very love seat that you had in your chateau on the Loire!"

He moved toward her, slipping an arm in hers and giving it a surreptitious pressure, like a signal. "You remember us sitting on that love seat when you were home on holiday from the convent, and I'd run down from school from Paris?"

Was he trying to bait her?—Toni wondered. Or was this an asinine attempt to help her explain her surroundings?

Perhaps, she thought confused, he was hoping to make Miss Brewster jealous, thereby making himself more desirable to her.

And that wonderful old screen! I was made by Antoinette's great-grandmother, Harriet! Do look at it!"

Toni drew sharply away from Brock. She suggested drinks for the visitors.

"We'll just have one cocktail, and then Brock has to run along, and—on and I will have a little chat, marquis!"

Miss Brewster's champagne-colored eyes narrowed as they took note of everything in the salon. The girl had a fortune in Antoinette! What was this mythical chateau on the Loire? She knew that part of France. Had visited many castles. If the girl was an impostor, an adroit question or two would unmask her.

Brock said: "May we see the beautiful place?"

Certainly. It, too, is rather lovely. Toni contrived that touch of broken accent which often, regrettably, was lacking. She must concentrate on it, especially when with Miss Brewster, whom she viewed with skeptical suspicion.

A young, amazed "Oh!" broke from the girl at sight of the bed.

That has come down through the centuries in your family, marquis!" She was examining the carved figure at the foot of the bed.

Toni thought desperately: "There may be markings on its giving its feet period. She'll try to trap me."

Brock cut in with a swift: "Yes," Miss Brewster ran a hand along the carved side. At the top of the bed

she paused, peering at painted shepherds and shepherdesses. "Isn't there a head light, marquis?"

"Yes," Toni moved past her, pressed a button on the wall. The picture sprang out clearly.

"Fricicless!" She examined the picture closely, then they moved back to the salon.

Toni mixed cocktails for them, but declined one for herself.

"I am going to bring a large party to your Pastoral Fete at the given?" Harriet inquired.

"On New Year's Eve."

"Niklas was telling me about it. Even the sheep and the ducks are to drink champagne!" exclaimed Harriet. "So awfully original!"

Brock rose presently.

"I'll toddle along and do those commissions for you now, Harriet. Dinner at eight?"

"At eight."

The two women were left alone. Without preamble Harriet asked: "Has Guy seen this place? Has he been here?"

"Oh, no," replied Toni.

"He's a charming fellow, isn't he?"

"He seems—pleasant."

"He's a dear. A great friend of mine."

A pause.

"I shall invite him for my party on New Year's Eve."

"He seems to enjoy the club," said Toni cautiously. It looked as though her visitor wished to say more about him, but was pondering the wisdom of it.

"I think you knew him in Paris. Or didn't you, Marquis?"

Careful!—thought Toni.

"Not that I remember."

"Oh, he isn't the sort one would forget," with assumed surprise.

Toni gazed at an old sampler on the wall, as though its faded hieroglyphics fascinated her.

Harriet took the hint. She changed the subject.

"An artist like you should not be performing in a New York night-club. Except for a few nice people—appreciative music lovers—it's well like casting pearls before swine. After the Pastoral Fete, too, the better class of people will be going south or, like myself, to the Riviera. You know, I can get you a marvelous engagement in Cannes."

So she wanted her to leave New York did she? Because of Guy? That was understandable.

"But, Miss Brewster, I enjoy my work here."

"Your success, of course." This with a patronizing smile. "You are new to New York and it strikes me you know nothing of Broadway. For me, as a visitor, it's different, amusing in the little season. But for you, marquis—the smile said off—it is my belief that it's dangerous!"

What Guy had already hinted!

"How? I get my salary, I'm paid."

"It won't pay you long."

"How do you mean?"

Toni looked straight into the champagne-colored eyes. She

Security Tax Not For Unemployment

Confusion still exists in the minds of some Ohioans regarding unemployment compensation and old-age insurance programs, according to accumulated reports in the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Social security account numbers are used for purposes of identification and record keeping in both systems. However, the two agencies are entirely separate, it is pointed out by Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the bureau's Salem office.

Judging from the great number of questions received, it is observed

HERE'S HOW THE Firestone AUTO SUPPLY AND SERVICE ORGANIZATION SAVES YOU MONEY

that many claimants for unemployment compensation consider that their right to out-of-work benefits is based on deductions from their wages," Johnston said. "Such is an erroneous conclusion, because the Ohio worker pays nothing for unemployment compensation coverage, and any deductions from his wages are for his old-age insurance."

"The Ohio law expressly prohibits any deduction from the wages of any worker for the purpose of unemployment compensation benefits. Both the worker and the employer are taxed under the old-age benefits program, which is administered by the Federal government," Johnston added.

Miss Brewster's champagne-colored eyes narrowed as she took note of everything in the salon. The girl had a fortune in antiques! What was this mythical chateau on the Loire? She knew that part of France. Had visited many castles. If the girl was an impostor, an adroit question or two would unmask her.

Brock said: "May we see the boudoir, please?"

"Certainly. It, too, is rather lovely." Toni contrived that touch of broken accent which often, regrettably, was lacking. She must concentrate on it, especially when with Miss Brewster, whom she sensed was skeptical about her, if not downright suspicious.

A long, amazed "Oh!" broke from the heiress at sight of the bed.

"This has come down through the centuries in your family, marquis?" She was examining the carved figure at the foot of the bed.

Toni thought desperately: "There may be markings on its giving its exact period. She'll try to trap me."

Brock cut in with a swift: "Yes," Miss Brewster ran a hand along the carved side. At the top of the bed

she paused, peering at painted shepherds and shepherdesses. "Isn't there a head light, marquis?"

"Yes," Toni moved past her, pressed a button on the wall. The picture sprang out clearly.

"Friezeless!" She examined the picture closely, then they moved back to the salon.

Toni mixed cocktails for them, but declined one for herself.

"I am going to bring a large party to your Pastoral Fete at the club. On what night is it to be given?" Harriet inquired.

"On New Year's Eve."

"Niklas was telling me about it. Even the sheep and the ducks are to drink champagne!" exclaimed Harriet. "So awfully original!"

Brock rose presently. "I'll toddle along and do those commissions for you now, Harriet. Dinner at eight?"

"At eight."

The two women were left alone. Without preamble Harriet asked: "Has Guy seen this place? Has he been here?"

"Oh, no," replied Toni.

"He's a charming fellow, isn't he?"

"He seems—pleasant."

"He's a dear. A great friend of mine."

A pause.

"I shall invite him for my party on New Year's Eve."

"He seems to enjoy the club," said Toni cautiously. It looked as though her visitor wished to say more about him, but was pondering the wisdom of it.

"I think you knew him in Paris. Or didn't you, Marquis?"

Careful!—thought Toni.

"Not that I remember."

"Oh, he isn't the sort one would forget"—with assumed surprise.

Toni gazed at an old sampler on the wall, as though its faded hieroglyphics fascinated her.

Harriet took the hint. She changed the subject.

"An artist like you should not be performing in a New York nightclub. Except for a few nice people—appreciative music lovers—it's well, like casting pearls before swine. After the Pastoral Fete, too, the better class of people will be going south or, like myself, to the Riviera. You know, I can get you a marvelous engagement in Cannes."

So she wanted her to leave New York, did she? Because of Guy? That was understandable.

"But, Miss Brewster, I enjoy my work here."

"Your success, of course." This with a patronizing smile. "You are new to New York and it strikes me you know nothing of Broadway. For me, as a visitor, it's different; amusing in the 'little season.' But for you, marquis—the smile slid off—"It is my belief that it's dangerous!"

What Guy had already hinted!

"How? I get my salary, I'm paid."

"It won't pay you long."

"How do you mean?"

Toni looked straight into the champagne-colored eyes. She thought: "She's like a leopardess. She's treacherous. Or am I imagining things?" Those eyes had a disagreeable fascination at the moment.

"Haven't you heard that the most popular night clubs are run by gangster money?" Harriet Brewster demanded.

"You mean—Niklas?"

Miss Brewster shrugged. "Oh, one couldn't be sure. But if it comes to a show-down, you'll be involved, dragged into whatever developed, mean, if the place were closed down."

"I see no reason why the place should be closed down," protested Toni, indignant with her guest. "Mr. Niklas is well known. He has treated me very kindly."

"I am sure of it," said Miss Brewster, with a swift look round the salon.

"But if the club is dangerous why, Miss Brewster, do you visit it so often?" Toni asked bluntly.

There was a brief pause.

"Because new things amuse me. I hate boredom. Because I, as a visitor, a spectator, am attracted by the bright face of danger," the strange answer came.

Security Tax Not For Unemployment

Confusion still exists in the minds of some Ohioans regarding unemployment compensation and old-age insurance programs, according to accumulated reports in the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Social security account numbers are used for purposes of identification and record keeping in both systems. However, the two agencies are entirely separate, it is pointed out by Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the bureau's Salem office.

"Judging from the great number of questions received, it is observed that many claimants for unemployment compensation consider that their right to out-of-work benefits is based on deductions from their wages," Johnston said. "Such is an erroneous conclusion, because the Ohio worker pays nothing for unemployment compensation coverage, and any deductions from his wages are for his old-age insurance."

"The Ohio law expressly prohibits any deduction from the wages of any worker for the purpose of unemployment compensation benefits. Both the worker and the employer are taxed under the old-age benefits program, which is administered by the Federal government," Johnston added.

CLEVELAND—Miss Marvel St. Aubin, a manicurist, shoots a pistol—and expertly—because, she says, it steadies her hand. "I started shooting in Florida last year," said the girl, a team captain of the suburban Lakewood Police Pistol association. "It's great fun and I think it improves my work as a manicurist."

"But if the club is dangerous why, Miss Brewster, do you visit it so often?" Toni asked bluntly.

There was a brief pause.

"Because new things amuse me. I hate boredom. Because I, as a visitor, a spectator, am attracted by the bright face of danger," the strange answer came.

ENGLAND SEES THREE-YR. WAR

Loses 12 Merchantmen In First Eight Days of Conflict

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 11.—Great Britain intensified her naval and economic warfare against Germany today, having lost 12 merchantmen in the first eight days of what the cabinet regards as a war that will last at least three years.

Public opinion also seemed inclined toward preparations for a long war and scorned what were presumed to be German intentions of offering peace after a lightning conquest of Poland.

The press almost unanimously backed up the cabinet's decision to base its policy on the premise of a three-year war, regarding the announcement as Britain's "withering" answer to a "peace feeler" in German Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goerring's speech Saturday.

Poles Still Intact
Furthermore, dispatches indicated the final blows against Poland were not imminent. War correspondents, whose reports just are beginning to reach England, stressed Poland's army still is intact, and that withdrawal always has been part of the Polish plans.

The 12th British ship sent to the bottom was the 8,640-ton Magdalen. The ministry of information announced her sinking last night with an undisclosed number of casualties, but did not announce how or where she was sunk.

The 2,796-ton Goodwood was reported by the British Press association yesterday to have been sunk in the North sea.

The government's answer was two-fold, it swung into an "unrelenting" campaign of "attacks and counter-measures," and, secondly, extended machinery for its "contraband control" through stations in Gibraltar and Alexandria, at both ends of the Mediterranean, and on Ceylon in the Indian ocean.

No details were given in a laconic communique which said "it appears that German submarines are now operating far afield. But the ministry of information said the admiralty had received 'numerous reports' of operations against German submarines and 'probably some have been successful.'"

The admiralty reported Britain's navy "particularly busy in waters about the British isles and the Atlantic."

The government still was concealing its military program, confining most communique to naval and aerial operations and civil defense.

The last weekend with unlimited gasoline—rationing starts next Saturday—brought out motorists in such numbers that roads and resorts were jammed.

Crowds thronged also into parks, movies, football games and the Whipsnade zoo, where many of the London zoo's animals have been taken.

Most eager of all, however, were the "evacuation widows" who walked, bicycled, thumbed rides, drove and jammed trains to see their wives and children for the first time since they were removed from London.

New "Golf" Game
AKRON, Sept. 11.—Hearing of a golf course greatly overcrowded by persons calling "bingo" instead of "fore" deputy sheriffs investigated yesterday and arrested R. B. Haupt, 42, on a charge of operating a game of chance. Two $25 pots were seized at a headquarters tent just as they were being handed out. Sheriff Walter P. O'Neill reported.

FAIR SUCCESS AT COLUMBIANA

Twenty-Seven Organizations Take Part In Parade

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 11.—A new feature of the annual Columbiana Street Fair, Friday and Saturday was a firemen's parade, in which 27 organizations participated, including seven musical groups. The parade formed in Firestone park and traveled several of the principal streets ending at the reviewing stand on South Main st., near Pittsburgh st.

A large crowd witnessed the parade and also viewed the displays of farm products and domestic flowers, baked goods, art and poultry shown in a large tent. The usual other street fair attractions also proved of interest.

In Parade
The following fire departments were represented in the parade: "Yerkel" Malvern, Sebring, New Waterford, Beaver Township, Canfield, Boardman, Wellsville, White Township, Chester, W. Va., Oakdale, Pa., East Palestine, Austin Township, New Galilee, Pa., Tiltonville, Newell, W. Va., Swissvale, Pa., and Columbiana. The Ladies' auxiliaries of Wellsville and White Township departments also marched.

The Women's Missionary society of the Lutheran church will meet Wednesday afternoon, with members of the New Waterford society as guests. The topic will be "The New Health Station in New Guinea." At the meeting of the Lutheran league Sunday evening, Miss Helen Simpson gave a report of the recent convention of the eastern district held at Canton. Martha Yarling led devotionals and Miss Ruth Wilson sang a solo.

Nurses Graduate
Miss Nelda DeStefano and Miss Thelma Filler are Columbiana members of the graduating class of the Salem City hospital School of Nursing, who will receive diplomas Friday evening at the Elks' home, Salem. A reception and dance will follow.

A joint meeting of the Columbiana chapter of the Order of Eastern Star with the Anna Eckley chapter of Negley, will be held in the local Masonic hall Tuesday evening. A program of entertainment is planned and lunch will be served.

Week-end guests in the home of Mrs. Nora McGaffick and daughter Miss Mae Fry were: Mrs. Walter Ardner, Toledo; Mr. and Mrs. John

Theatre Attractions

A story that has been loved by children from eight to 80 for 30 years and more becomes a motion picture achievement in "The Wizard of Oz" technicolor fantasy which shows at the State tonight and Tuesday.

The story of Dorothy, little Kansas farm girl, who is transported by a cyclone to a wonderful land "beyond the rainbow" to enjoy adventures and friendships with all sorts of strange people, is brought to the screen with all the delightful qualities of the series of Oz books which have been favorite reading for several generations.

The cast includes Judy Garland as Dorothy; Frank Morgan as Professor Marvel and the Wizard; Ray Bolger as "Hunk" and the Scarecrow; Bert Lahr as "Zeke" and the Cowardly Lion; Jack Haley as "Hickory" and the Tin Man; Billie Burke as Glinda, the good witch; Margaret Hamilton as Miss Gulch and the Witch; Charles Grapewin as Uncle Henry and Clara Blandick as Aunt Em; with the famous singing midget troupe as the Munchkins.

Superlative performances by the entire cast, particularly Bert Lahr, and capable direction and production make the Wizard of Oz truly outstanding motion picture entertainment. The color and setting for the production bring a new beauty to the story. Musical background and several musical numbers are a major part of the magic believe tale.

The picture is recommended to the entire family, entertainment which grown-ups as well as children will delight.

Farmall Tractor Family Is Now Complete With Arrival Of Middle Size

GROWERS MAKE INQUIRIES HERE

Complete Facts Available
At Salona Supply Co.
Office

The Farmall tractor family is now complete. "Little brother" Farmall-A arrived a few weeks ago, and now comes the middle size, Farmall-H. This is the report of J. I. Fitzsimmons, manager of the farm implement department of the Salona Supply Co., dealers in International Harvester tractors and machines. He is quite proud of the new "family" of Farmalls and he has every right to be.

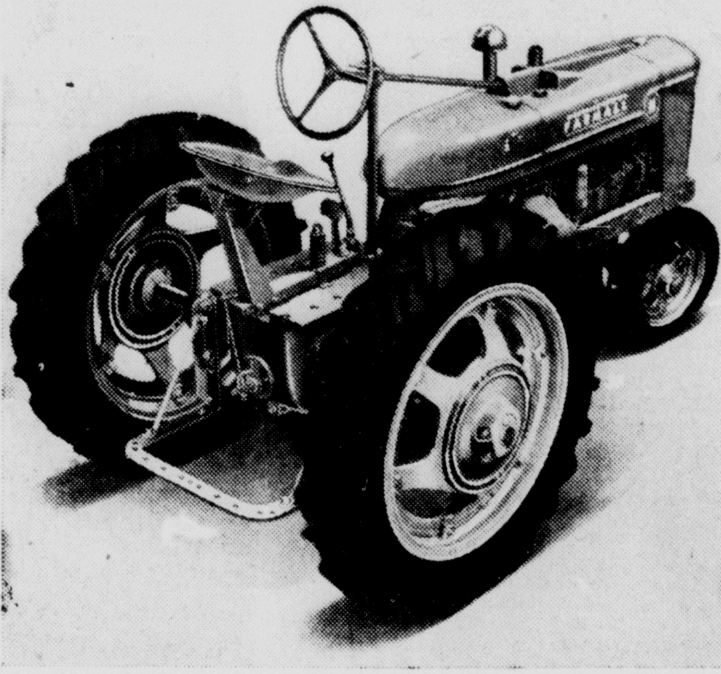

The new tractors are not only new in appearance, but new in design and performance as well. Growers in this vicinity already are coming in to ask about the samples on hand.

International Harvester engineers have been testing the new models at the factory and on farms in all parts of the country for many months. Every feature of design and construction has been proved in the fire of actual work under tougher conditions than will be encountered on the farm.

Motion pictures taken of the new Farmalls on the factory testing ground fairly take one's breath away. The wonder is that men and mechanical construction can make it. But it is the engineers' work. They make sure the product will do what is claimed for it before it is offered to the user.

The new family of Farmall tractors, including the small Farmall-A with the exclusive "Culti-Vision" feature, may be seen at the store of the Salona Supply Co. on West Pershing st.

The New Model Farmall A

The new model Farmall-H now being shown at the Salona Supply company plant on W. Pershing st. The Model-H is the general farm size but there is a new "little brother", the Farmall-A made to replace that last team on the farm and "big brother", Farmall-M, that's so big and strong.

BALANCE MEANS PERFECT RIDING

And Properly Inflated
Tires Supply Correct
Balance

Of course, everyone knows that balance affects the performance of a "slack wire" artist! But, do you know how important it is to the performance of your car? Balance is to your car what legs of equal length are to a table or chair; what a true foundation is to your house, or any building.

It is "Balance," or correct distribution of weight that gives a car the qualities of smooth operation, shockless riding and ease of handling.

These advantages are the result of refinement; refinement that makes the need for proper care of your car more important today than ever before! And you are not giving your car proper care; you are destroying its "foundation" when just one tire is underinflated!

The tires are the foundation of your car and the maintenance of correct equal pressures is far more important than most drivers realize.

An underinflated tire tends to defeat the purpose for which the parts of your car were designed. It not only shortens the life of a tire considerably and causes excessive chassis and body strain, but lessens your own riding comfort.

An underinflated tire will make driving tiresome and steering difficult. In the rear, a soft tire causes an unpleasant swaying motion.

Underinflation destroys braking equality, which results in added danger not only to yourself, but to others.

There is no need of driving tires that are not balanced with air pressure. Kelly's Sohio Service Station at Lincoln and Pershing Sts., will gladly inflate your tires. You don't have to be a regular customer. Simply drive in to the air pump. There's no obligation.

ARRANGES WORK OF LANDSCAPING

Cope Bros. & Fultz, Inc.,
Sets Plantings At
Right Time

Within the next few weeks, many property owners of Salem and adjoining cities will carry out landscaping work, according to J. J. Cope, proprietor of the Cope Bros. —Fultz Nursery on Depot road. Orders are being received daily for trees, shrubs and plantings which will be delivered as soon as weather conditions are best. Much of this work is being scheduled for September. It's time now but the ground should have a good soaking rain.

In many instances, plans and drawings have been prepared by the nursery for the property owner. Other sketches have been looked over and types of plantings suggested for various places in yard and garden. Still other customers merely tell Mr. Cope what varieties of trees, shrubs and vines are wanted, knowing that those kinds will be available and will be of finest quality.

Visitors Welcome.

Mr. Cope's long experience and close association with activity of nursery operation enables him to most satisfactorily advise customers on the best planting methods and conditions. Trucks and men from the nursery deliver and plant many landscaping jobs, while materials for other jobs are called for by trucks from outside the city.

Visitors are always welcome. Mr. Cope says, to stop at the nursery and inspect plots of trees, shrubs, and flowering plants, evergreens and other stock growing there. If a customer sees something he or she particularly likes, such a planting will be marked and set aside for the visitor. One can always be assured of getting his own planting and the best grade of nursery stock from Mr. Cope.

Mother's have found a real source of assistance in the Paris Cleaners these days as youthful wardrobes are being prepared for the fall term of school.

School sessions got under way last week. Today the youngsters are buckling down to the real work. Comparatively warm weather permits the use of summer garments as yet but the cooler days of fall are not far away and heavier clothing will be needed.

From past experience, mothers have found it economical to let the Paris Cleaners take a hand in keeping children well fitted for school. Children are usually pretty hard on clothing and they are not particularly careful when it comes to keeping clothing clean. This is a natural tendency but it may be a damaging one if nothing is done about it. Periodic visits to the Paris will not only keep the clothing clean, but it will keep it fresh, help to keep its vitality and thereby extend its life period.

Neon Eye Solves Problem Which Has Vexed Many Motorists

From 50 miles an hour up, does your car handle as easily as at lower speeds? Or, do you unconsciously tighten your grip on the steering wheel and your nerves become more tense? At those higher speeds does your car tramp, shimmy or jiggle?

Unbalanced wheels are the cause! Now the new Bear DY-NAM-IC wheel balancer solves the problem by not only balancing the wheels statically, but also dynamically with the neon eye. On this machine each wheel is revolved at high speed and the neon eye positively detects every spot on the wheel which is out of balance!

Unbalanced wheels are dangerous to safety—cause tires to wear out 20-50% quicker! That's why Matt Klein now offers car owners this latest service, Bear DY-nam-ic wheel balancing—it's more proof that for the last word in modern automotive service you should see Matt Klein, at 813 Newgarden st., who has this wonder machine at his garage.

Farmall Tractor Family Is Now Complete With Arrival Of Middle Size

GROWERS MAKE INQUIRIES HERE

Complete Facts Available
At Salona Supply Co.
Office

The Farmall tractor family is now complete. "Little brother" Farmall-A arrived a few weeks ago, and now comes the middle size, Farmall-H. Such is the report of J. I. Fitzsimmons, manager of the farm implement department of the Salona Supply Co., dealers in International Harvester tractors and machines. He is quite proud of the new "family" of Farmalls, and he has every right to be.

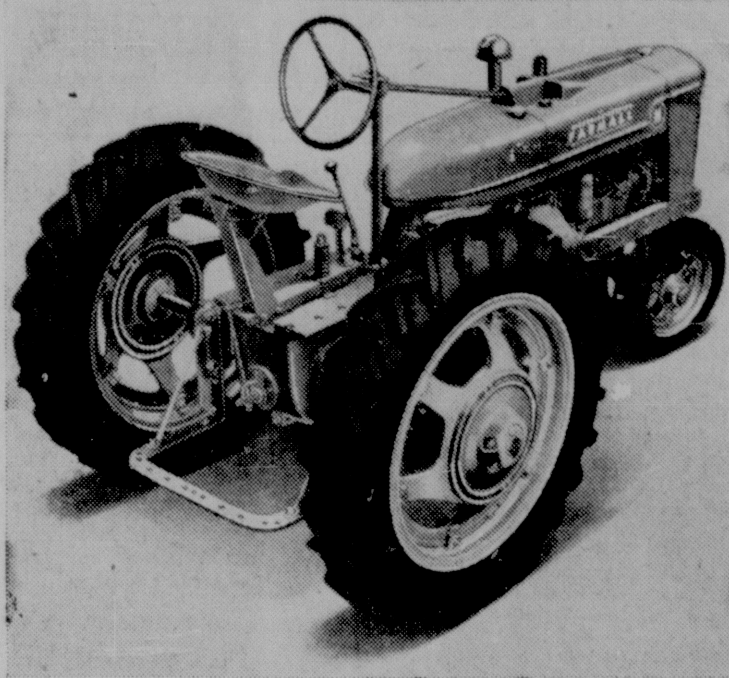

The new tractors are not only new in appearance, but new in design and performance as well. Growers in this vicinity already are coming in to ask about the samples on display.

International Harvester engineers have been testing the new models at the factory and on farms in all parts of the country for many months. Every feature of design and construction has been proved in the fire of actual work under tougher conditions than will be encountered on the farm.

Motion pictures taken of the new Farmalls on the factory testing ground fairly take one's breath away. The wonder is that men and mechanical construction can take it. But it's facts the engineers want. They make sure the product will do what is claimed for it before it is offered to the user.

The new family of Farmall tractors, including the small Farmall-A with the exclusive "Culti-Vision" feature, may be seen at the store of the Salona Supply Co. on West Pershing st.

The New Model Farmall A

The new model Farmall-A new being shown at the Salona Supply company plant on W. Pershing st. The Model-A is the general farm size but there is a new "little brother", the Farmall-A made to replace that last team on the farm and "big brother", Farmall-M, that's so big and strong.

BALANCE MEANS PERFECT RIDING

And Properly Inflated
Tires Supply Correct
Balance

Of course, everyone knows that balance affects the performance of a "slack wire" artist! But, do you know how important it is to the performance of your car? Balance is to your car what legs of equal length are to a table or chair; what a true foundation is to your house, or any building.

It is "Balance," or correct distribution of weight that gives a car the qualities of smooth operation, shockless riding and ease of handling.

These advantages are the result of refinement; refinement that makes the need for proper care of your car more important today than ever before! And you are not giving your car proper care; you are destroying its "foundation" when just one tire is underinflated!

The tires are the foundation of your car and the maintenance of correct equal pressures is far more important than most drivers realize.

An underinflated tire tends to defeat the purpose for which the parts of your car were designed. It not only shortens the life of a tire considerably and causes excessive chassis and body strain, but lessens your own riding comfort.

An underinflated front tire will make driving tiresome and steering difficult. In the rear, a soft tire causes an unpleasant swaying motion.

Underinflation destroys braking equality, which results in added danger not only to yourself, but to others.

There is no need of driving tires that are not balanced with air pressure. Kelly's Sohio Service Station at Lincoln and Pershing Sts., will gladly inflate your tires. You don't have to be a regular customer. Simply drive in to the air pump. There's no obligation.

ARRANGES WORK OF LANDSCAPING

Cope Bros. & Fultz, Inc.,
Sets Plantings At
Right Time

Within the next few weeks, many property owners of Salem and adjoining cities will carry out landscaping work, according to J. J. Cope, proprietor of the Cope Bros.-Fultz Nursery on Depot road. Orders are being received daily for trees, shrubs and plantings which are to be delivered as soon as weather conditions are best. Much of this work is being scheduled for September. It's time now but the ground should have a good soaking rain.

In many instances, plans and drawings have been prepared by the nursery for the property owner. Other sketches, looking over and types of plantings suggested for various places in yard and garden. Still other customers merely tell Mr. Cope what varieties of trees, shrubs and vines are wanted, knowing that those kinds will be available and will be of finest quality.

Visitors Welcome
Mr. Cope's long experience and close association with activity of nursery operation enables him to most satisfactorily advise customers on the best planting methods and conditions. Trucks and men from the nursery deliver and plant many landscaping jobs, while materials for other jobs are called for by trucks from outside the city.

Visitors are always welcome. Mr. Cope says, to stop at the nursery and inspect plots of trees, shrubs, flowering plants, evergreens and other stock growing there. If a customer sees something he or she particularly likes, such a planting will be marked and set aside for the visitor. One can always be assured of getting his own planting and the best grade of nursery stock from Mr. Cope.

PITTSBURGH TEAM SWAMPS SALEM RIDERS, 11-4

SMITH ENJOYS FIELD DAY AS N. HILLS WINS

Scores Seven Goals In Leading Pittsburgh Team to Victory

It was Davey Smith day at the North Hills polo field in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Not that there was any particular ceremony honoring the handsome North Hills captain. There wasn't.

But Smith made it his day anyhow by leading North Hills to an 11-4 victory over the Salem Polo club in a Penn-Ohio league game. The North Hills captain counted seven goals in pacing his team to victory.

Remain In Lead

The victory enabled North Hills to remain in the lead in the Penn-Ohio league, while the defeat forced the Salem club to remain in the cellar, at least for another week. It was the Salem team's third straight set-back.

Starting with a three-goal outburst in the first chukker, North Hills poloists fell behind only once during the one-sided league engagement. They were blanked in the second period while Salem scored four goals to take a 4-3 lead.

The Pittsburgh club came back with three goals in the third period, holding Salem scoreless, as they moved out in front, 6-4, at halftime.

The Salem riders continued to go scoreless in the second half while Pittsburgh increased its lead by chalking up one goal in the fourth period, three in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Worst Defeat

The defeat was one of the worst the Salem riders have suffered this season in view of the fact that they were held scoreless in five of the six periods. Their four-goal spurt in the second chukker featured two goals by Jim Pidgeon and one each by Tony Sheen and J. B. (Pet) Votaw.

The game was the last one the Salem riders will play out of town this season. They are scheduled to meet Zeilenople next Sunday and Akron the following Sunday in their final games the season at the Ellsworth rd. field.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—This may be Henry Armstrong's last week as welterweight champ. Gossips say the N. B. A. is all set to unfrock him, hand the title to Lou Ambers and declare Sammy Luftspring, Jimmy Leto and Al Nettlow (all stablemates of Ambers) leading contenders. A Minneapolis paper says four Big Ten coaches will be running war ads in the paper in December. Jimmy Fox's onery appendix rates a great big assist in Joe DiMaggio's drive for grand slam honors in the American league.

Missing

That erstwhile pop-off, Dizzy Dean, Has all but vanished from the scene; And fans are writing to inquire Why he now strums a muted lyre.

(It may be that he's in the grip of the well-known censorship—At any rate, a Dean so muzzled Has the population puzzled.)

The first major war casualty may be the Galento-Nova fight. It needs a shot in the arm badly. It is only fair to warn you that 22 of the best looking yearlings in 20 years are packing up for Georgetown. That isn't old Paul Waner hitting in the ninth spot in the N. L., is it? We thought they said the guy was through. Young Corbett is trying to talk himself into another match with Fred Apostoli. What for? Talking about Dean, Doc Weaver, the Cardinal trainer, still likes to tell the story of how he once invited Dizzy to dinner and the old boy showed up promptly at noon.

S'help Us Dept.

This one even had the Greeks stymied for a time. The real name of Ted Anastos, Northwestern quarterback is (take a deep one, now) Themistokles Nikolaos Anastopoulos.

Add mobolition: Bud Ward is out guy to win the national amateur. Tennis writers here picked Suzanne Lenglen as the all-time best with Helen Wills Moody second and Alice Marble third. Do they think Helen Jacobs is a golfer? Tom Sheehan, who had nibbles from two major league outfits, has turned down both to stay at Minneapolis.

High Cost of F. B.

It will cost about $56.50 per head to equip the well-dressed football this season. Most expensive items are shoes, $12 a pair; head gears and shoulder pads, $9.50 each; pants, $8.50; hip pads, $7 and jerseys, $5. Other prices range downward from $2.50 for thigh pads to four bits for undershirts.

Rush's Hitting Big Factor In Eagles' Win Over Lakers

With Third Baseman Rush leading the attack, the Lisbon Eagles hammered out a 5-3 victory over Lake Placentia's semi-pro baseball club at the lake diamond Sunday.

Rush's hitting was the big factor in Lisbon's victory, although two errors by Pitcher Willis Schopfer aided the Eagles and proved costly to Placentia.

Rush collected four hits in five trips to the plate.

REDS HANGING TO SLIM LEAD IN FLAG RACE

Phillies Only Team Out Of Running In Close Pennant Fight

By JUDSON BAILEY.

Three weeks before major league baseball is "blackout" for 1939, pennant panic has gripped the National league again.

The Cincinnati Reds are barely hanging onto their lead, three games in front of the St. Louis Cardinals. A lot of people are wondering what difference it makes which team totters into the world series opposite the New York Yankees, who now are 17½ games in front of their closest pursuers.

At a glance, the pennant races simmer to this:

National League	W.	L.	GB	G.T.P.
Cincinnati	78	50	3	26
St. Louis	76	54	3	24
Chicago	72	62	9	20
Brooklyn	69	60	9½	25
American League	W.	L.	GB	G.T.P.
New York	96	38	1	20
Boston	78	55	17½	21
Chicago	76	58	20	20

All the clubs below third place in the junior circuit already have been eliminated mathematically. The Chicago White Sox are "Dormie," needing to win all and the Yankees to lose all for a tie. This leaves the chase up to the 3rd Sox, who probably will be eliminated this week.

In contrast, the only club positively out of the National league dissension is Philadelphia. Since Sept. 1, the Reds have played mere 500 ball, winning five, losing five and tying one.

The Cardinals have crept closer by winning eight, losing three and tying one. The Cubs seem to have given up the ghost, losing seven of eleven, but the Dodgers have popped into the picture by winning nine of 13—the last six victories in a row.

Obviously the Reds must shake out of their lethargy suddenly, or step aside. With big Paul Derringer scattering seven hits for his 20th victory, they beat the Cubs, 7-2, yesterday.

But even so, St. Louis sidled a half step closer by sweeping a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-2 and 11-4. The first game also was the 20th triumph for Curt Davis.

Dodgers Advance

The Dodgers moved within a half game of third place on an 8-4 victory over the New York Giants.

The Phillies were rained out at Boston.

New York's Yankees ran their latest winning streak to eight games by beating the Washington Senators, 4-3 and 6-2. In the second game, they collected four homers, two by Bill Dickey, to bring the team total to 151.

The Red Sox broke a six-game losing string with 10-7 and 5-1 triumphs over the Philadelphia Athletics as Ted Williams went on a spree with two homers, two triples and a single.

Cleveland divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns, winning the first, 15-5, and dropping the second, 5-4.

Johnny Rigney's personal 11-game winning streak was ended as Puck Newsom hurled the Detroit White Sox to a 5-1 victory over the White Sox, but Chicago came back to capture the nightcap, 11-9.

TRIBE ON LAST EASTERN SWING

Start Final Tour of Atlantic Coast With Game Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Cleveland Indians were in town today ready to start their final tour of the season of the American league's seaboard cities by opening a series with the Yankees tomorrow.

The Tribe yesterday at St. Louis split even in a double header, winning the opener 15 to 5, and dropping the nightcap 4 to 5 as they completed their first inter-club series of the summer. They wound up with 16 victories and only six defeats for a percentage of .727 against the Browns.

Cleveland scored in only two innings in the first game but that was plenty. Training 5 to 0, they banged out six runs in the sixth, and came back in the seventh with nine runs to remove all semblance of a contest. Oscar Grimes' home run with two on put the Tribe ahead 6 to 3.

Milner's 11th Win

At Milner went all the way on a hill for the Tribe to score his 11th win of the season, while Bill Hunter started and lost for St. Louis, followed by Jake Wade and Jack Kramer.

Myrl Hoag's sixth inning home run with one on decided the second game for the Browns. Hoag, fired last Friday for indifferently playing, also hit a homer in the first game.

Hal Trosky, who got four hits in as many trips to the platter in the opener, followed with a home run and single in four times up in the second game. Harry Elenstait was the losing pitcher, being relieved by Bob Feller in the eighth. Roxie Lawson went the route and won for the Browns.

CLEVELAND—Phelps Meeker and his wife spend their leisure hours collecting and caring for leaves and tree twigs. They have 90 of Ohio's 123 species of tree leaves, and believe they know more about trees than anyone in northern Ohio.

FALL HYSTERIA HITS COLUMBUS FOOTBALL FANS

Ohio State Opens Grid Practice; 60 Husky Stars Report

COLUMBUS, Sept. 11.—That "madness" that comes with the autumn took its first grip on Columbus today.

Ohio State university trotted out its football talent for the first time and officially put the season on its way.

Sixty youths, hefty, tanned and of varying weight and height, got their initial workout on the turf after a day of skull practice before a blackboard.

Hold Chalk Talk

Coach Francis A. Schmidt had his full crew on hand for the chalk session yesterday and saw that they got started properly in the dining room where all will eat three meals a day until the last whistle blows in November.

Daily morning practice will supplement afternoon sessions until Oct. 3, when classes get under way, Schmidt said.

The coaching staff, was reported to have evolved several important changes insofar as placement of last year's lettermen was concerned. Charlie Maag of Sandusky, the plant center of the 1938 edition, already has been dropped over to right tackle, leaving Capt. Steve Andracko of Tinway and Claude White of Portsmouth with the pivot-post responsibilities. The only other major change so far disclosed was shifting Stu Whitehead of Columbus off end to a guard position.

Streamlined Backs

There's no little conversation about the backfield, expected to be streamlined in the best Schmidt tradition. There are several good lettermen coming back to form a nucleus—Johnny Rabb of Akron, Jim Langhurst of Willard, Jimmy Strausbaugh of Chillicothe, Don Scott of Canton, Jimmy Sexton of Middletown and Tommy Welbaum of Akron.

And there's new material, but what part it will play remains to be seen.

Ohio State opens its season Oct. 7 against Missouri here.

PITTSBURGH TEAM SWAMPS SALEM RIDERS, 11-4

SMITH ENJOYS FIELD DAY AS N. HILLS WINS

Scores Seven Goals In Leading Pittsburgh Team to Victory

It was Davey Smith day at the North Hills polo field in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Not that there was any particular ceremony honoring the handsome North Hills captain. There wasn't.

But Smith made it his day anyhow by leading North Hills to an 11-4 victory over the Salem Polo club in a Penn-Ohio league game. The North Hills captain counted seven goals in pacing his team to victory.

Remain in Lead

The victory enabled North Hills to remain in the lead in the Penn-Ohio league, while the defeat forced the Salem club to remain in the cellar, at least for another week. It was the Salem team's third straight set-back.

Starting with a three-goal outburst in the first chukker, North Hills poloists felt behind only once during the one-sided league engagement. They were blanked in the second period while Salem scored four goals to take a 4-3 lead.

The Pittsburgh club came back with three goals in the third period, holding Salem scoreless, as they moved out in front, 6-4, at halftime.

The Salem riders continued to go scoreless in the second half while Pittsburgh increased its lead by chalking up one goal in the fourth period, three in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Worst Defeat

The defeat was one of the worst the Salem riders have suffered this season in view of the fact that they were held scoreless in five of the six periods. Their four-goal spurt in the second chukker featured two goals by Jim Pidgeon and one each by Tony Sheen and J. B. (Pete) Votaw.

The game was the last one the Salem riders will play out of town this season. They are scheduled to meet Zeilenpoel next Sunday and Akron the following Sunday in their final games the season at the Ellsworth rd. field.

REDS HANGING TO SLIM LEAD IN FLAG RACE

Phillies Only Team Out Of Running In Close Pennant Fight

By JUDSON BAILEY.

Three weeks before major league baseball is "blacked out" for 1939, pennant panic has gripped the National league again.

The Cincinnati Reds are barely hanging onto their lead, three games in front of the St. Louis Cardinals. A lot of people are wondering what difference it makes which team totters into the world series opposite the New York Yankees, who now are 17½ games in front of their closest pursuers.

At a glance, the pennant races simmer to this:

National League	W.	L.	GB.	G.T.P.
Cincinnati	78	50	...	26
St. Louis	76	54	3	24
Chicago	72	62	9	20
Brooklyn	69	60	9½	25

American League

W.	L.	GB.	G.T.P.
New York	96	38	1	20
Boston	78	55	17½	21
Chicago	76	58	20	20

All the clubs below third place in the junior circuit already have been eliminated mathematically. The Chicago White Sox are "Dormie" needing to win all and the Yankees to lose all for a tie. This leaves the chase up to the Red Sox, who probably will be eliminated this week.

In contrast, the only club positively out of the National league dissension is Philadelphia. Since Sept. 1, the Reds have played more 500 ball, winning five, losing five and tying one.

The Cardinals have crept closer by winning eight, losing three and tying one. The Cubs seem to have given up the ghost, losing seven of eleven, but the Dodgers have popped into the picture by winning nine of 13—the last six victories in a row.

Obviously the Reds must shake out of their lethargy suddenly, or step aside. With big Paul Derringer scattering seven hits for his 20th victory, they beat the Cubs, 7-2, yesterday.

But even so, St. Louis sidled a half step closer by sweeping a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-2 and 11-4. The first game also was the 20th triumph for Curt Davis.

The Dodgers moved within a half game of third place on an 8-4 victory over the New York Giants.

The Phillies were rained out at Boston.

New York's Yankees ran their latest winning streak to eight games by beating the Washington Senators, 4-3 and 6-2. In the second game, they collected four homers, two by Bill Dickey, to bring the team total to 151.

The Red Sox broke a six-game losing string with 10-7 and 5-1 triumphs over the Philadelphia Athletics as Ted Williams went on a spree with two homers, two triples and a single.

Cleveland divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns, winning the first, 15-5, and dropping the second, 5-4.

Johnny Rigney's personal 11-game winning streak was ended as Puck Newsom hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the White Sox, but Chicago came back to capture the nightcap, 11-9.

TRIBE ON LAST EASTERN SWING

Start Final Tour of Atlantic Coast With Game Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Cleveland Indians were in town today ready to start their final tour of the season of the American league's seaboard cities by opening a series with the Yankees tomorrow.

The Tribe yesterday at St. Louis split even in a double header, winning the opener 15 to 5, and dropping the nightcap 4 to 5 as they completed their first inter-club series of the summer. They wound up with 16 victories and only six defeats for a percentage of .727 against the Browns.

Cleveland scored in only two innings in the first game but that was plenty. Training 5 to 0, they banged out six runs in the sixth, and came back in the seventh with nine more to remove all semblance of a contest. Oscar Grimes' home run with two on put the Tribe ahead 6 to 3.

Mihar's 11th Win

Al Mihar went all the way on a hill for the Tribe to score his 11th win of the season, while Bill Trotter started and lost for St. Louis, followed by Jake Wade and Jack Kramer.

Myron Hoag's sixth inning home run with one on decided the second game for the Browns. Hoag, fined last Friday for indifferent playing, also hit a homer in the first game.

Hal Tresky, who got four hits in as many trips to the platter in the opener, followed with a home run and single in four times up in the second game. Harry Eisenstat was the losing pitcher, being relieved by Bob Feller in the eighth. Roxie Lawson went the route and won for the Browns.

CLEVELAND—Phelps Meeker and his wife spend their leisure hours collecting and caring for leaves and tree twigs. They have 90 of Ohio's 103 species of tree leaves, and believe they know more about trees than anyone in northern Ohio.

The Lorain brothers captured the doubles championship, defeating Bill Weber and John Tschet of Cleveland East in the finals, 6-2, 6-0.

Henry Weber was awarded the championship of the singles event on the toss of a coin after he and his brother asked to be relieved of meeting in the finals of the singles because they were also scheduled to play in the doubles finals.

Mary Schuller of Cleveland East won the women's singles, defeating Dorothy Bodendorf of Salem in the finals, 6-1, 7-5. New Castle girls won the doubles.

The winning team was composed of Joan and Andy Ulrich, Martin Polder, Jr., and Rudy Schuster. John Ulrich led the team with an 85, while his teammates each turned in 88's.

Fred Schenker of Farrell captured medal honors and first prize in a nine-hole blind bogey tournament. Schenker's medal score was 80, while his blind-bogey card was 3.

A brother combination, John and Henry Weber of Lorain, carried off honors in the men's division of the T. S. J. A. tennis tournament, played at Centennial park.

Warren Beaten By Printz Klub

A two-run rally in the sixth inning boosted the Printz Klub softball team to a 4-3 victory over the Warren Blue Eagles at Warren on Sunday.

The Eagles led 3-2 going into the sixth inning when the Printz Klub came from behind to win. Pitcher G. Howard of the Salem team held Warren batters to four hits.

WILLIE TURNESA DEFENDS CROWN

International Field Listed For National Amateur Tourney

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Willie Turnesa, dark-haired New Yorker, began defense of his national amateur golf title today against an international field including five former champions, dozens of other top-ranking players and dark-horse aspirants.

The field, totaling 169 players, set out to play 13 holes today over the 7,022-yard North Shore Country club course in the first half of the 36-hole qualifying test. The low 130 and ties complete medal competition tomorrow.

Rated on par with Turnesa for titular honors as the medal test began were Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, 1937 amateur champion and winner of the National Open on this same course in 1933; C. Ross Semerville, Canada, 1932 champion; Charlie Yates, Atlanta's 1937 British amateur champion; and Gus Moreland, Peoria, Ill., the 1938 amateur titlist.

Other former champions looking for another amateur crown were Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati; Francis Quimet, Boston, who won his first amateur title in 1914 and his second in 1931, and Charles (Chick) Evans, Chicago, champion in 1916 and 1920.

Few were able during practice rounds to conquer the tough par 72 for the North Shore layout with its 65 sand traps and tree-lined fairways.

Qualifying rounds will be followed by medal play rounds of 18 holes on Wednesday and Thursday. The semi-finals over 36 holes are set for Friday and the 36-hole championship match Saturday.

NEW NAZI DRIVE SEEN AS THREAT

Germans Point Toward Lwow, Passageway of Polish Supplies

of about a million men along the defenses east of the great Vistula river which passes through Warsaw and bisects the country to the south.
The marshal's idea, it would seem, was not to make a major resistance in the early stages of the invasion but to conserve his resources for a later stand. Meanwhile the Allies in the west might be able to apply enough pressure to the Siegfried line to draw German troops away from Poland.
The sensational defense of Warsaw is of greater sentimental than strategic value, as has been pointed out before. Its loss naturally would have an adverse effect on the morale of many Poles.

However, the loss of the strong military defenses about Warsaw is most serious for the Poles. These form part of the Vistula defenses behind which the Poles reportedly intend to make their major stand.
The German capture of Lodz, just southwest of Warsaw, was a bad blow to the hard-pressed Poles. Lodz was one of the chief defenses of the capital, a city which has seen much fighting in days gone by.

If the Germans are able to smash through the Vistula line and inflict a decisive defeat on the Poles, that will open up the Russian supplies to Germany. If the Germans are correct in their assumption that the Soviet union is going to furnish the reich with the necessary sinews.

The latest German communiqué reports progress down in the Lwow sector against "our doggedly defending opponents" who "have been pushed back over the San river." The San is a branch of the Vistula, and it runs on the east side of the Vistula—the wrong side from the standpoint of the Polish defense.

Crossing of the San would bring the Germans within perhaps 75 miles of Lwow. And Lwow, it has been indicated, is the heart of Poland's life-line into Rumania.

This might be a good time to mention the charges of atrocities which already are being hurled by both sides in the European war.
From long experience on the battle fronts of the World War I am convinced that 90 per cent of the atrocity stories are pure propaganda manufactured from whole cloth. I encountered innumerable instances of this during the last conflict.

FRENCH, GERMAN TROOPS BATTLE

Hit at Opposite Ends of Long Sector Between Rhine and Moselle

PARIS, Sept. 11.—The heavily entrenched French and German armies struck at opposite ends of a 100-mile sector between the Rhine and Moselle rivers today as the western front sea-sawed back and forth.

The morning communiqué from the French general staff announced the front was generally quiet during the night, but that French troops had succeeded in making one "local advance" under cover of darkness.

Their new zone of attack was on the eastern end of a line from the plateau of Biech down into the many salient area, between the Little Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

The German counter attacks, which the French were reported to be holding off with bayonets, were directed against the western end of the line from the Saar basin, where French troops staged their first advance.

Action generally appeared to be gaining in intensity.

Identity of the forces involved remained a military secret. It was believed that by now the British expeditionary force also had had time to take battle positions.

Operations, which were confined largely to contact by advance guards on both sides during the first week of the war, were reported to be involving reinforced bodies of troops as the second week of the campaign was launched.

Movements also were broadening out, with whole woods, heights and villages at stake, where earlier operations were aimed against front line trenches and pill boxes.

Aerial scouts who had been following German movements also brought back reports that German troop movements in the Saar area were "bothered" by French raids on communication lines.

Reports from the eastern front said the Polish forces were reforming their lines along the middle portion of the Vistula river, where French advances said, "the situation seems less grave."

Paris again had an early morning air raid alarm, attributed to a German scouting raid in which the planes failed to reach the capital. Premier Daladier, meanwhile, proceeded with the formation of a war-time cabinet.

In the "no-man's land" between the French Maginot and the German Siegfried lines, German forces were reported staging a strong counter-attack. The brunt of the offensive was at the junction of the Moselle and Saar rivers, on the extreme northern flank of the western front.

Police Chief James Kinney reported they died as a climax to a drinking party which broke out in a fist fight in the skiff and then in the water.

Kinney said Henry Cochran also of Higginsport, told this story to a coroner's jury, which gave a verdict of death by drowning.
The three men left a Higginsport roadhouse to get whisky in Augusta, across the river, late Saturday night. Soon after they started out on the return trip in the boat. Shepherd and Glaze began arguing over the new war. A scuffle followed and both went overboard.

"The first time," Cochran said, "I went in and separated the boys and helped them back into the boat and told them to quit fighting or we would get drowned. The next thing I knew they were both back in the water again and one of them, jerked an oar out of the boat."

"They kept on fighting and the last I saw was their heads bobbing up and down in the water."

CANADA JOINS BRITAIN IN WAR

Question of Sending Major Force Abroad Remains In Doubt

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The question of sending a major expeditionary force to Europe remained to be decided today as Canada offered her resources to Great Britain under a declaration of war with Germany.

Less than two hours after Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King sent a copy of the war declaration to the Canadian Official Gazette at 1:19 p. m. (12:10 p. m. E. S. T.) yesterday, the United States applied the arms embargo restrictions of the neutrality act to Canada.

Canada's first formal war proclamation in history came in three swift steps. Thirteen hours after the house of commons approved the government's war stand, Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general, issued a royal proclamation. The proclamation then was cabled to London, where it was quickly approved by King George.

Upon Britain's entrance into the World War in 1914 the dominion government merely published the British war proclamation.

The dominion followed Great Britain by just a week in going to war with Germany. Three other dominions—New Zealand, Australia and the Union of South Africa—preceded Canada with war declarations.

India was considered automatically at war with the reich upon Britain's declaration.

The prime minister said the dominion's first contributions to the war will be to safeguard British and French possessions in the north Atlantic, train and send Canadian airmen overseas and dispatch food and munitions to the allies.

During the World War, Canada enlisted 619,000 men for service and the expeditionary force eventually reached 450,000. The nation's casualties were 55,634 dead and 149,732 wounded. World war costs to the dominion were estimated at $3,000,000,000.

NEW NAZI DRIVE SEEN AS THREAT

Germans Point Toward Lwow, Passageway of Polish Supplies

of about a million men along the defenses east of the great Vistula river which passes through Warsaw and bisects the country to the south.

The marshal's idea, it would seem, was not to make a major resistance in the early stages of the invasion but to conserve his resources for a later stand. Meantime the Allies in the west might be able to apply enough pressure to the Siegfried line to draw German troops away from Poland.

The sensational defense of Warsaw is of greater sentimental than strategic value, as has been pointed out before. Its loss naturally would have an adverse effect on the morale of many Poles.

However, the loss of the strong military defenses about Warsaw is most serious for the Poles. These form part of the Vistula defenses behind which the Poles reportedly intend to make their major stand.

The German capture of Lodz, just southwest of Warsaw, was a bad blow to the hard-pressed Poles. Lodz was one of the chief defenses of the capital, a city which has seen much fighting in days gone by.

If the Germans are able to smash through the Vistula line and inflict a decisive defeat on the Poles, that will open up the Russian supplies to Germany. If the Germans are correct in their assumption that the Soviet union is going to furnish the reich with the necessary supplies.

The latest German communiques reports progress down in the Lwow sector against "our doggedly defending opponents" who "have been pushed back over the San river."

The San is a branch of the Vistula, and it runs on the east side of the Vistula—the wrong side from the standpoint of the Polish defense.

Crossing of the San would bring the Germans within perhaps 75 miles of Lwow. And Lwow, it has been indicated, is the heart of Poland's life-line into Roumania.

This might be a good time to mention the charges of atrocities which already are being hurled by both sides in the European war.

From long experience on the battle fronts of the World War I am convinced that 90 per cent of the atrocity stories are pure propaganda manufactured from whole cloth. I encountered innumerable instances of this during the last conflict.

FRENCH, GERMAN TROOPS BATTLE

Hit at Opposite Ends of Long Sector Between Rhine and Moselle

PARIS, Sept. 11.—The heavily-entrenched French and German armies struck at opposite ends of a 100-mile sector between the Rhine and Moselle rivers today as the western front saw-sawed back and forth.

The morning communique from the French general staff announced the front was generally quiet during the night, but that French troops had succeeded in making one "local advance" under cover of darkness.

Their next move of attack was on the eastern end of a line from the plateau of Bitchie down into Germany's Palatinate area, between the Little Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

The German counter attacks, which the French were reported to be holding off with bayonets, were directed against the western end of the line from the Saar basin, where French troops staged their first advance.

Action generally appeared to be going in intensity.

Identity of the forces involved remained a military secret.

It was believed that by now the British expeditionary force also had had time to take battle positions.

Operations, which were confined largely to contact by advance guards on both sides during the first week of the war, were reported to be involving reinforced bodies of troops as the second week of the campaign was launched.

Movements also were broadening out, with whole woods, heights and villages at stake, where earlier operations were aimed against front line trenches and pill boxes.

Aerial scouts who had been following German movements also brought back reports that German troop movements in the Saar area were "bothered" by French raids on communication lines.

Reports from the eastern front said the Polish forces were reforming their lines along the middle portion of the Vistula river, where, French advised said, "the situation seems less grave."

Paris again had an early morning air raid alarm, attributed to a German scouting raid in which the planes failed to reach the capital.

Premier Daladier, meanwhile, proceeded with the formation of a war-time cabinet.

In the "no-man's land" between the French Maginot and the German Siegfried lines, German forces were reported staging a strong counter-attack. The brunt of the offensive was at the triangle formed by the junction of the Moselle and Saar rivers, on the extreme northern flank of the western front.

War Talk Starts Fight In Rowboat; Two Men Drowned

AUGUSTA, Ky., Sept. 11.—The Ohio river has claimed the lives of two World War veterans who fought in a rowboat in midstream over the merits of the opposing causes in the new war abroad.

The two men—Paris Shepherd, 44, who had just returned home from the Philippines and reenlisted after 25 years' service in the army, and Clifford Glaze, 45, both of Higginsport, O., were drowned early yesterday.

Police Chief James Kinney reported they died as a climax to a drinking party which broke out in a fist fight in the skiff and then in the water.

Kinney said Henry Cochran also of Higginsport, told this story to a coroner's jury, which gave a verdict of death by drowning.

The three men left a Higginsport roadhouse to get whisky in Augusta, across the river late Saturday night. Soon after they started out on the return trip in the boat, Shepherd and Glaze began arguing over the new war. A scuffle followed and both went overboard.

"The first time," Cochran said, "I went in and separated the boys and helped them back into the boat and told them to quit fighting or we would get drowned. The next thing I knew they were both back in the water again and one of them jerked an oar out of the boat."

"They kept on fighting and the last I saw was their heads bobbing up and down in the water."

CANADA JOINS BRITAIN IN WAR

Question of Sending Major Force Abroad Remains In Doubt

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The question of sending a major expeditionary force to Europe remained to be decided today as Canada offered her resources to Great Britain under a declaration of war with Germany.

Less than two hours after Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King sent a copy of the war declaration to the Canadian Official Gazette at 1:10 p. m. (12:10 p. m. E. S. T.) yesterday, the United States applied the arms embargo restrictions of the neutrality act to Canada.

Canada's first formal war proclamation in history came in three swift steps. Thirteen hours after the house of commons approved the government's war stand, Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general, issued a royal proclamation. The proclamation then was cabled to London, where it was quickly approved by King George.

Upon Britain's entrance into the World war in 1914 the dominion government merely published the British war proclamation.

The dominion followed Great Britain by just a week in going to war with Germany. Three other dominions—New Zealand, Australia and the Union of South Africa—preceded Canada with war declarations.

India was considered automatically at war with the reich upon Britain's declaration.

The prime minister said the dominion's first contributions to the war will be to safeguard British and French possessions in the north Atlantic, train and send Canadian airmen overseas and dispatch food and munitions to the allies.

During the World war, Canada enlisted 619,000 men for service and the expeditionary force eventually reached 450,000. The nation's casualties were 55,634 dead and 149,732 wounded. World war costs to the dominion were estimated at $3,000,000,000.
